

European Space Weather Week 13
Belgium, November 2016

* Call for Sessions ****

(je rajoute : il n'y a pas assez de sessions proposées par des Français à mon goût ... Notre communauté PNST peut facilement s'affirmer dans ce meeting qui est devenu le principal de la discipline.

Jean Lilensten).

Dear colleagues,

Each year, during the European Space Weather Week conference, people from all over the world gather to discuss the newest insights in space weather and try to find appropriate answers to the challenges and threats that space weather imposes. Science, data exploitation, observations, service development, operational models, engineering, industrial challenges, etc. are all relevant aspects of space weather.

The strength of the conference is that the participants can contribute largely to its content leading to a rich and varied programme. We therefore invite and encourage you and your colleagues to submit proposals for sessions.

Session proposals can be submitted from January 15, 2016 onwards at

<http://www.stce.be/esww13/>

The deadline for submission is February 5, 2016, included.

Happy submission!

Mauro Messerotti and Petra Vanlommel, on behalf of the ESWW Programme Committee
